CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA CO., CALIFORNIA, MARCH 5, 1904

$1.00 A YEAR

ARBOR DAY.

Arbor Day was celebrated in and around Campbell this year to some extent. It was decided by the Board of Trade to attempt to do something in this line this year and to that end a special meeting was called for Saturday evening. While the people did not respond very liberally to the invitation to be present, yet those that did come were in earnest and undertook the project. A committee consisting of Dr. P. C. Hartman, B. Campbell, C. H. Whitman, F. M. Righter, C. Berry, R. W. Kennedy, E. Gilman, Rev. J. W. Lewis and E. C. Hurlbert were appointed with power to act in the matter. It was found that there was no available money and in order to get trees planted it would be necessary to have owners of property furnish trees.

B. Campbell started in early to trim up his shade trees along Campbell avenue and plant Acacia in missing places. C. H. Whitman purchased four nice Japanese Palms and four Magnolias for his home at the corner of Central and Minna streets. This is in line with the spirit of the times in attempting to make Campbell look tropical. J. C. Ainsley and others planted some trees and fixed up what was already planted. Front yards were put in order in many instances and the town will be better for it. It gives us a start that can be materially added to in years to come.

The high school had planned an elaborate service for the day. At nine o'clock the four classes of the school—Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior—met at the new school building to plant four trees which Senator Perkins had sent to Prof. Smith from the government. It had been arranged that each class should plant a tree with exercises of its own. This was done in a pleasing manner and the witty orations and class songs and yells were much enjoyed by those fortunate enough to be present. The exercises opened by the Freshman class. Miss Russell is class president. Milton Francis placed a small Oriental Plane tree in the hole and in a very pleasing speech dedicated it to the class of '07. His speech was both witty and eloquent, laying particular stress upon the fact that this tree was peculiarly typical of the class he represented, towering as it does above its neighbors. After he had finished, a unique class song was rendered, and then all the "Freshies" placed a trowel full of earth around the tree, and these were followed by the teachers of the school—Prof. J. Fred Smith, Miss J. Newton and Prof. A. E. Powers. A hearty cheer was given the bright class of '07 by the other classes.

Next came the Sophomore class. Ernest Abbott is class president and he placed a Bladder Nut tree in the hole, and Miss Edna Briggs in a witty speech showed how that specie of tree was the peer of any other and appropriate for the class of '06 to plant. Each of the Sophomores helped to plant the tree as also did the teachers as in the first case.

The Juniors had chosen as their tree the Pin Oak. Edwin Parker is class president and Miss Dottie McKenzie in a very neat and concise speech dedicated this famous tree to the class of '05. The same course was pursued in the planting of the tree.

Campbell, the "Orchard City."

Where the thriving town of Campbell now stands, with its beautiful and happy homes, with its orchards and fruit packing and canning establishments, there was, less than twenty years ago, only long stretches of grain fields with here and there a few acres of orchard. During these few years Campbell has steadily grown to a town of some six hundred inhabitants, while three thousand or more people on orchard homes surrounding the town contribute to the making of a busy place. The Campbell district is the pioneer of the fruit industry, and the amount of business done and the steady demand for real estate show that this locality will continue to lead in the fruit business. It was not until 1887 that the first town lots were laid off in Campbell. The town was named in honor of Mr. Benjamin Campbell, the founder of the place. With the increase in population a demand for stores followed, until to-day nearly all lines of business are well represented, making an ideal town, with water works, electric lights and power, long and short distance telephones, cement walks, excellent church and school facilities, and other conveniences of a modern city. With all these conveniences it is not necessary for the people of Campbell to go to larger places to trade, but facilities for travel allow them to do so if they so desire. A five mile ride over the best roads in the United States will take them to San Jose, the county seat, while a fifty mile ride on the Southern Pacific train will place you in San Francisco. Six passenger trains each way go through Campbell daily, running between San Francisco, San Jose, Almaden, Los Gatos, the Redwood Big Trees, and Santa Cruz, allowing the residents to go to the metropolis of the Coast, or to one of its favorite watering places, by a two-hours' ride. A convenient freight train service carries large shipments from Campbell daily, while a mixed train running between San Jose and New Almaden, places Campbell in touch with the greatest quicksilver mine in the world (save one in Spain), only twelve miles distant. Work is being commenced by the Southern Pacific on widening the railroad tunnels through the Santa Cruz mountains. When this is accomplished it is said that the tourist travel will be by this route to the East, that they may see the picturesque scenery of the mountains and the famous redwood big trees. Then Campbell will grow faster than ever, for if Eastern tourists could but see the place the population would increase very rapidly. Two electric roads from San Jose, by competing companies, are to be built at once through Campbell. Electric power is here in abundance, transmitted from Colgate, about two hundred miles away in the Sierra Nevadas. The Campbell Water Company has a seventy-five horse power electric motor and the water pumped is always cool and pure. Other firms are now using this kind of power and eventually it will be universally used throughout this section for all purposes. Several irrigating companies are organized here for the purpose of furnishing rich sediment water for the orchards when desired. It is furnished at a reasonable figure and experience shows that it pays to irrigate even if it isn't needed.

Perhaps the most marked evidence of the material growth of Campbell is to be seen in the increase in the postal service. In February, 1897, the first free rural delivery in the United States was established at Campbell. This place was chosen because of its excellent roads, its compact population, and its people were of the reading class. During the first month after the rural delivery service went into effect there were delivered 6,356 pieces of mail matter, while during August, 1903, there were 22,174 pieces delivered and collected. This is a splendid showing.

Another true test of Campbell's growth is the large volume of business done at the railroad depot. For freight shipments from Campbell the figures are immense. For one year past the figures are approximately: Canned fruit, 3,000,000 pounds; dried fruit, 1,500,000 pounds; green fruit, 1,500,000 pounds; merchandise, 800,000 pounds. But these figures would do credit to a town many times the size of Campbell.

The fruit establishments of Campbell are the pride of the town, for they are models. The large plant of the Campbell Fruit Growers' Union (belonging to some 75 growers), does a large business, having employed as many as 750 persons at one time. During the busy fruit season the weekly pay roll has reached the $5,000 mark. During the fruit year of 1902 the Union dried

All eyes were now upon the Seniors who had chosen the Norway Maple as their favorite tree. Miss Kennison is class president and Vaughn Lloyd placed the tree in the ground and in a characteristic speech dedicated it to the class of '04, at the same time planting at its roots a bottle containing the names of the class. This was done in the belief that in future days these names would be found and pointed to as the illustrious class of '04 who had made Campbell Union High School famous. An appropriate song was sung on "How They'd be Missed" when they left school, etc., after which the same ceremony was performed in planting the tree, with the exception that E. C. Hurlbert, representing the Board of Trade placed the last shovelful of dirt. Next year the high school will place shade trees along the streets and otherwise beautify the new grounds. It was a splendid beginning and one that will no doubt be kept up by future classes. These trees are on the west side of the school grounds in line with the Redwood tree planted by President Roosevelt last year.

At the public school grounds, Prof. Smith and teachers had arranged for several trees to be planted.

Planting of a pepper tree and climbing rose by Miss Cook's little tots of the First and Second grades. A concert recitation, "Grow, Little Tree" was given by the children.

Planting of a pepper tree and climbing rose by Miss Carlson's pupils, the Third and Fourth grades. Recitation, "Arbor Day," John Wood; recitation, "Happy Forest," Vaudine Putnam.

Wisteria and climbing rose, by pupils of Miss Sargent, the Fifth and Sixth grades. Recitation, "We've Planted a Vine For You," by Beth Kennedy.

Miss Cooper's pupils—Seventh and Eighth grades—planted a pepper tree and rose with the following exercises: Song, "Planting of a Tree," school; recitation, "Plant a Tree," Mildred Duncan; recitation, "The Tree," Ernestine Kennedy; song, "Song of the Trees," Mamie McMurray, Mildred Duncan, Ernestine Kennedy and Ivy O'Connor; recitation, "The Rose," Hazel Abbott; recitation, "The Value of Planting," Frank Nelson; song, "California," school.

7,723,990 pounds and sold themselves 3,269,371 pounds amounting to $114,697.22. The balance of the fruit was sold by the individual growers. The J. C. Ainsley Packing Co. has no rival when it comes to neatness and quality of fruit canned. Some 45,000 cases (24 cans in case) are put up during the fruit season, all of which goes to England. They employ during the busy season between 400 and 500 hands, the weekly pay roll reaching the $4,500 mark this year. The Central Santa Clara Fruit Co. has a model packing plant and while just having started in business, the fine character of their output of fancy packed dry fruit will bring them a good business. The San Tomas Fruit Co. just north of town does a large drying and packing business.

But these concerns handle but a small per cent of the fruit harvested in the Campbell orchard district. A large number of the growers dry their own fruit and sell to the many packing firms of the county.

With the increase of population and the steadily increasing fruit business, the demand for an up-to-date banking establishment became apparent and the Bank of Campbell was organized a few years ago. The business has prospered as the town prospered, until now its deposits at times pass the very satisfactory figure of $150,000. Very few places in the United States can show a larger percentage of residents, per capita, who have bank accounts. Nowhere will you find a more prosperous, thrifty, contented, and intelligent a class of people than we have here.

Where else under the sun can you find a place where your money invested will so surely return such large returns as the Campbell orchards will do? Where else can you live and be sure of making from ten to thirty per cent on your investment? Where else can you find a place where this money is made with so little hard work, and in a climate and scenic country simply superb? Where else can women, boys, and girls earn money so easily and at remunerative wages as is done here? Many a boy and girl are paying their way through school and college. Where else can you find a climate so temperate that out of door life can be enjoyed the year around and where fuel bills are not a burden? Come to Campbell and see for yourself.

Mrs. Louisa Kelly has moved to San Jose where she has bought a lodging house on First street which she will conduct with the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Briggs. Mrs. Kelly has lived in Campbell for several years and made many friends who regret her leaving, but wish her every success in the new enterprise.

Mrs. Shelly has been critically ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ainsley, this week.

Prof. Pannell is decidedly better after the attack of this week.

The other day a gentleman bought a city paper from a train newsboy, giving him a half dollar in payment. Just then the train pulled out and the boy boarded it remarking that he would leave the change next day. The next day the boy was invisible, but the third the conductor dragged him out to deliver up his change. The moral to this tale is, buy your newspapers from the home dealer.

S. A. MOULTON CLOSES A LARGE LAND DEAL.

S. A. Moulton was in Campbell a few days ago to visit old friends. He had just returned from Colusa where he had successfully concluded the sale of his brother's large ranch of 18,000 acres, being one of the largest real estate deals effected in the State. The many friends of Mr. Moulton (and they are many) will be rejoiced to know of this good piece of news. He had been working on the deal for some time and with marked ability he carried it to success. Large real estate transactions like this do not happen often, involving as it does approximately a third of a million dollars, and demonstrates that Mr. Moulton still possesses that keen business ability which marked his successful career of years ago when he was considered one of the best business men of this section, and which made him a man of considerable means. But scheming and unfaithful men took advantage of his generosity and he was ruined by fruit brokers. He has for some time struggled against those misfortunes which came to him through the tricks of others, but withal has kept sweet, not letting reverses get the best of his generous nature and pleasant disposition, something that few people passing through what he has passed through, could have done. A man among men, always affable and ready to aid a worthy cause or help lift his fellowmen to a more exalted place in life. The friend of the poor, who always fared well at his hands, and many there are in this and other localities who can testify to his extreme generosity.

So many hearts hereabouts were rejoiced to hear of Mr. Moulton's good fortune, as the commission from the sale of so large a tract puts him on "easy street" for the rest of his life, and who is there that won't feel that it is well deserved? Mr. Moulton says that he intends to enjoy the remaining days of his life in seeing the world and getting all the blessings there are for him. In company with his brother they will go to the world's fair and other places of interest.

Good luck and congratulations to genial "Sam" Moulton, say a host of friends.

AN Iowa editor has the advertising idea proper and draws the line nowhere. Here's his write-up of a wedding: "Miss Jennie Jones and Bob Henry were married at the Jones residence last night. The bride is the daughter of our Constable Jones, who made a good officer and will undoubtedly be re-elected next spring. He has a fine horse for sale in another column. The groom runs a grocery store and is a good patron of our advertising columns and has got a new line of bargains this week. All summer he has paid two cents more for butter than any other in town. The happy couple left on the 10 o'clock train for Milwaukee to visit the bride's uncle, who is reported to have lots of money and Bright's disease. Bob certainly has an eye to business."

A SPEAKER at the California Coast Counties Improvement Association meeting last week stated with truth and appreciation; "The greatest factor in the development of any state is the newspapers of the state. Compositly they reflect public opinion. The papers of California, as shown by the clipping bureaus from all parts of the United States; do more in their work of advertising California than the papers of any other State do for their commonwealth."—Santa Cruz Surf.

What Is The War About?

(Epworth Herald.)

There is a good deal of misinformation, even among people of education, about the motives which have inspired the present misunderstanding between Russia and Japan. The chief facts may be presented thus:

What is the real issue?

Japan objects to the Russian Bear's shoving his long, cold nose down into Korea.

What of Korea?

Korea is an autocracy under Japanese influence, about as large as Kansas, with a population estimated at between 8,000,000 and 16,000,000. The empire occupies a peninsula just south of Siberia, jutting out into the Pacific Ocean between the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan, and reaching within less than 100 miles of the southern end of Japan.

Is Korea such a valuable country?

Not especially. It is a purely agricultural land, and the methods of cultivation are primitive. A few gold mines are operated, and there are supposed to be deposits of copper, iron, and coal.

Why, then, does Russia want Korea?

Chiefly because of its position. Korea is an extension of Manchuria, which practically belongs to Russia. In the natural development of contiguous territory Russian merchants have crossed the boundary into Korea, and Russian interest accumulating there under the weak native government naturally look to the czar for protection.

Is Korea of real strategic value to Russia?

Yes; and for two reasons: First Russian vessels must make a long detour around Korea to pass from Vladivostok, Siberia, to Port Arthur, the Russian harbor in Manchuria. In this journey they must traverse a narrow strait between Korea and a Japanese island comparable to Gibraltar. To insure free passage Russia seeks to control the end of the Korean peninsula. Second, when Russia begins its anticipated absorption of China it will be inconvenienced if a hostile power should have a military base on the northeastern coast of Asia. Therefore it desires to annex Korea.

Why does Japan object to the Russian occupation of Korea?

Because Japan is overcrowded, with a population twelve times as dense as that of the United States, and it seeks an outlet for its emigrants on the mainland. The island empire has hoped, too, to make Korea the base of an attempt to extend Japanese influence throughout China. Furthermore, it now conducts nine-tenths of Korea's commerce and owns Korea's two railways. And, finally Japan holds its own independence would be menaced were Russia to gain the harbor at the end of the Korean peninsula almost within cannon range of the Japanese island fortress of Tsushima.

Does Japan want to annex Korea?

No. It is satisfied to maintain Korea's sovereignty with the expectation that its natural advantages of situation will give it the lion's share of Korea's trade.

When did the trouble between Japan and Russia begin?

It began in 1895, when by war Japan had forced China to recognize Korea's independence and to grant Japan the southern end of Manchuria. Russia forced Japan to give up Manchuria, seized the surrendered territory, and secured a timber-cutting concession in the Yalu Valley in Corea.

What brought on the present crisis?

Last year Russia advanced the claim that the timber concession extends to the valleys of all rivers tributary to the Yalu and that it gives the Russians the right to build railways and to monopolize the port of Yongampho at the Yalu's mouth. But Russia has not announced its intention to annex Korea?

No. But Japan took the ground that its procedure meant virtual annexation, and so issued a protest.

Is it true that the sympathy of the United States is largely with Japan?

It is true. Russia stands for cold, aggressive selfishness. Her presence is a blessing nowhere. Her acquisition of new territory in the Far East means no addition to the Christian influences at work in that region. On the other hand Japan is an alert, progressive, plucky little nation, which has shown great hospitality to Christian truth and Christian ideals. England and America give their sympathy to Japan because she possesses these traits. But entirely aside from that, her contention in the present crisis seems to be just.
